Kennedy Again Rejects Mr. K's Bid For Summit

India Finishes Third National Ballot Contest

Half Of Eligible Voters Took Part In 10-Day Election

BOMBAY, India (AP)—India's third general election—biggest in the non-Communist world—ended Sunday with interest focused on the hotly contested re-election bid of controversial Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon.

Half the nation's 210 million eligible voters are estimated to have participated in the 10 days of voting to choose a new Parliament and fill more than 2,900 seats in 13 state legislatures.

Menon backers claimed the left-most firebrand took a strong early lead over his chief opponent in the North Bombay parliamentary race, J. B. Kripalani, 74.

Prime Minister Nehru put his own prestige behind Menon in a campaign in which Menon was accused by opponents of being pro-Communist.

Nationwide results of what was considered a generally peaceful but intensely in North Bombay, campaign—only nine deaths were reported in interparty clashes—probably will be known Thursday. A few snowbound Himalayan areas will vote later.

Nehru's mammoth Congress party, in power since India gained independence in 1947, is in no danger of losing its majority grip on Parliament. The big question is the victory margin position group not fighting Menon's reelection was the Communist and the showings of opposition parties.

President Takes Father For Cruise

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy took his recuperating father for a sun-filled cruise Sunday during which Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy waterskied near the White House yacht.

The President and his family were out for about two hours on the 92-foot yacht, Honey Fitz, on Lake Worth, part of the inland waterway on one side of Palm Beach.

With the temperature in the mid-80's and a slight breeze to accompany the sunshine, Kennedy had a pleasant final afternoon of the long weekend he began here last Thursday.

Willing To Meet By June 1, If Way Is Cleared

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy still rejects Soviet Premier Khrushchev's bid to open the Geneva disarmament conference at the summit level but offers such a meeting by June 1—if worthwhile progress is made at lower levels.

This was disclosed Sunday in the text of a note the President sent to the Soviet leader Saturday. In it Kennedy said it would be going at things backwards to have heads of government start the 18-nation Geneva sessions which begin March 14.

Kennedy firmly rejected Khrushchev's suggestion that U.S. resumption of nuclear testing in the air would be an aggressive act.

But he credited the Russian with sincerity in his moves for a summit session—which was a sort of coal-of-fire touch since Khrushchev's latest note implied Kennedy is insincere in his approach and already convinced the Geneva meeting will fail.

Khrushchev twice has called for the heads of all the 18 governments to start the discussions and twice the United States and Great Britain have rejected the request.

Wants Ministers To Meet

Once again Kennedy insisted that the discussions should begin among foreign ministers.

But he expressed hope that "developments in the conference and internationally would make it useful to arrange for the personal participation of the heads of government before June 1."

The Geneva session is being convened at the request of the United Nations and is to report to that organization by June 1.

In a message which Britain is expected to echo, Kennedy in large measure reaffirmed the stand the two Western powers have taken consistently. The latest Khrushchev summit bid was rejected informally last week soon after it was received and the 1,000-word note released Sunday contained no surprises.

Huge Narcotics Haul Is Made

NEW YORK (UPI)—A long-shoreman seized Saturday night with a jackpot haul of narcotics worth $25 million was ordered held Sunday on $52,500 bail pending a hearing on Tuesday.

The suspect, Anthony Fuca, 31, who was already out on $22,500 bail in a previous narcotics hearing charge, was seized as he tried to leave his Bronx apartment with three suitcases containing 90 pounds of pure heroin.

Narcotics squads said it was the biggest such seizure ever made by a city police force in the United States, with enough narcotics to "supply the wants of all the addicts in America for 1 to 10 months."

Algerian Commandos Hit Loyal MPs With Bazooka Rockets

By ANDREW BORIWIEC
ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—Commandos of the European Secret Army Organization fired bazooka rockets into a barracks of French military police Sunday night, setting raging fires in gasoline storage tanks.

Fire engines arriving at the scene in the Algiers suburb of Maison Carree were blocked with machine-gun fire for nearly an hour while flames shot toward the sky.

Reports said at least 10 persons were killed or wounded in the attack, one of the most daring and spectacular actions of the European terrorist group since it launched its desperate fight against Algeria's independence.

Dutch Officials Hail Visit Of Robert Kennedy

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy arrived Sunday on his world tour to confer with Dutch officials eager for his views obtained in Indonesia on the West New Guinea dispute.

Foreign Minister Joseph Luns hurried out to Ypenburg air base to meet the touring U.S. attorney general on his arrival from West Germany and rode with him into this Dutch capital.

Kennedy will confer with Luns and Premier Jan de Quay Monday before leaving for Paris on the last lap of his world tour.

Dutch leaders pinned high hopes on Kennedy's visit in the belief he may contribute to a peaceful solution to the issue of Dutch West New Guinea, claimed by Indonesia.

Kennedy's arrival was marked by a new move in the Dutch-Indonesian dispute. President Sukarno of Indonesia disclosed Saturday an order had been issued Feb. 6 mobilizing all Indonesian men and women between 18 and 40.

Kennedy looked tired as he and his wife arrived at Ypenburg from a heavy schedule in West Germany.

The French army moved six heavy tanks and a score of other armored vehicles into the area.

It was believed that the presence of a newly arrived antiterrorist squad in the barracks was the main reason for the attack.

The center of Algiers was the scene of a series of attacks by European or Moslem extremists. Before nightfall, nine persons had been killed in Algiers and 15 others wounded. Reports from Constantine in the east said four persons had been killed there, while in Oran to the west gun battles between European and Moslem terrorists took nine lives.

The barracks fire raged unabated until about 10 p.m. when firefighters reported they had the blaze under control.

The flames spread to an ammunition depot, touching off many cartridges. The noise of exploding bullets could be heard from a great distance and the glow of the blaze was clearly visible in Algiers.

Ted Kennedy Makes Big Hit With Irish

By COLIN FROST
NEW ROSS, Ireland (AP)—The Irish Branch of the Kennedy clan met a young cousin from Massachusetts Sunday and liked what they saw.

Edward Kennedy, in turn, won enough applause from a couple of whistle-stop speeches to boost his hopes of political success back home.

Kennedy, 30, the youngest brother of President Kennedy, reached Dublin at noon on the last stop of a European tour, and immediately left for the home of his ancestors in County Wexford.

This was supposed to be a private and informal visit, but Ireland gave him the sort of cheerful reception that even his brother would have been proud of.

Kennedy is the first of his family to visit the old country since his brother won the presidency. He looks like a younger version of the President.

In the town center he took his shoes off. The reason soon became clear. He wanted to make a speech from the hood of Ambassador Grant Stockdale's Cadillac without scratching the paint.

Monday, Kennedy will make a courtesy call on President Eamon de Valera.

Ten days each month, while the new moon is shaded from the sun's light by the earth, a powerful telescope watches for meteor flares as they touch the moon's surface.

Sidney Russak, research scientist heading the project, says most meteors are burned up by friction when they enter the earth's atmosphere. Since the moon has no atmosphere, all the space debris hits the moon surface at a speed of about 54,000 miles an hour—thus constituting a danger to visitors of the satellite.

Project Studies Meteoroid Danger To Moon Travelers

BALTIMORE (AP)—A project being conducted by the Martin Marietta Corporation may enable scientists to determine the frequency, size and force with which meteoroids can be expected to pelt a manned moon colony in later years.

Airliner Hits Fog-Covered Mountain Top

22 Venezuelans Die In Flames Following Crash

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A Venezuelan airliner crashed into a cloud-covered mountain while making a landing approach on the resort island of Margarita Sunday. Airline officials said all 22 persons aboard perished.

Reports of offshore fishermen said they saw the two-engine F27 turbo-prop plane of Avenza Airlines burst into flames after it crashed.

All 19 passengers and 3 crew members were reported to be Venezuelans.

Margarita Island is in the CVA ribbon Sea about 15 miles north of the peninsula of Araya on Venezuela's east coast and about 165 miles east northeast of Caracas.

Reports from the island said the plane crashed about three miles from the landing field at the principal resort city of Porlamar. Weather at the time was bad, the reports said.

The plane had left Carapano in eastern Venezuela at 6:19 a.m. on a flight to Porlamar, Cuman and Caracas.

Officials said the plane was last heard from at 6:27 a.m., about 10 minutes before it crashed.

Reports from Margarita said the victims were badly burned. The bodies were taken to Porlamar for identification.

Castro Seen At Ball Game In Havana

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro put in an unannounced appearance at a Havana baseball park Sunday.

He went on television between games of a doubleheader and later took a turn at the plate.

Castro's disappearance from public view two weeks ago had made him something of a mystery.

The prime minister appeared to be in good spirits.

Pitchers challenged him to take up a bat and to see which one could strike him out with the least number of pitches. Castro accepted the challenge.

Dressed in his revolutionary army uniform and a black beret, Castro beamed as he strode over to a dugout to pick out a bat. About 32,000 fans at "Latinoamericano" stadium in the Cerro District roared.

At the plate, Castro took two balls and two strikes from pitcher Modesto Verduja, then cracked a grounder through shortstop. He then took one strike from pitcher Axoris Hernandez, then lined one into center field.

After that, Castro ambled toward the official box to watch the second game as the crowd cheered.

Washington Prepares To Cheer Hero

Quarter Million Expected Despite Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bands will play, cheers will ring and oratory will flow today for the first American to orbit the earth—although occasional rain may fall during the celebration.

While the capital polished last-minute plans for Monday's roiling tribute to astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., officials closely watched the weather forecasts.

There had been a possibility of wet snow or rain but in a late afternoon forecast the weather bureau indicated that only occasional rain might fall. Cloudy, chilly, 40-plus weather appears assured for the parade, the bureau said, adding that there may be rather lengthy periods when the rain is very light or even none at all.

But nothing short of a blizzard or cloudburst—neither at all probable—would be likely to cut into the crowd of 250,000 expected to jam the sides of the mile-long parade route from the White House to the Capitol. This is the familiar trail of the presidential inaugural parades but is being run in reverse this time.

An idea of the enthusiasm has been borne home to Edgar Morris, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Visiting Dignitaries, who reported: "If we had time we could make this parade as big as an inaugural."

He explained that he has been flooded by calls for organizations wanting to join in the triumphal procession for the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel who flashed three times around the world last Tuesday. But they can't be accommodated.

Glenn and his family are to fly in Monday from West Palm Beach, Fla., with President Kennedy, arriving at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland between 11:30 and 11:40 a.m. EST. After brief but colorful ceremonies there, helicopters will take the party to the White House.

The traditional key-to-the-city presentation will take place quickly there. The parade is to start at 12:05, reaching the Capitol at 1 p.m. There Glenn will address a joint session of Congress in the House chamber—an honor seldom extended except to visiting chiefs of state or heads of government.

Administration's Favored Measures Appear Doomed

WASHINGTON (AP)—With Congress heading into its third month, the prospects for action on some of the key proposals in President Kennedy's New Frontier program appear dim.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said that while he is not giving up hope the odds now seem to be against enactment of medical care, elementary education aid and anti-recession programs.

But Mansfield said he remains confident Congress will approve new international trade, tax revision and foreign aid proposals.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois indicated he thinks Kennedy's recommendation to link medical care for the elderly to the Social Security system will be ignored. He said an over-all education bill appears dead for this session of Congress.

Professor Proposes New Middle Road Plan To World Peace

NEW YORK (AP)—A Columbia University professor of sociology proposed Sunday a middle road to world peace, a gradualist way past the emotional stumbling blocks on the far right and the far left.

Dr. Amitai Etzioni said it is a movement he has been organizing among the nation's college faculties.

It was announced that 20 of his Columbia colleagues—including Nobel Prize-winner Polykarp Kusch—had joined in a council for the "gradualist way to peace."

As a step-by-step solution for the cold war arms race, Etzioni proposed a disarmament program that would start with small conventional weapons and work up to nuclear weapons in 20 to 30 years.

By then, he explained, new international institutions must be ready to solve world problems. For example, he mentioned a new United Nations having an international police force, no veto privilege, more representation for more populous countries and a reorganized International Atomic Energy Agency to work for peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Within the last month, Etzioni has organized "gradualist" councils at the University of California, Stanford, UCLA, the University of Wisconsin, Ohio State University, the University of Chicago and Harvard.

He chose American professors for a starting point, Etzioni said, in order to insure "hard thinking" rather than the "confused emotionalism" which often characterizes work in this area.

"All the councils include conservatives as well as liberals, and Republicans as well as Democrats," he continued. "Representatives of all major religions are being invited to join the councils in each community."

"We seek to enlist the massive American center, avoiding both the extreme left and the extreme right."

To win congressional support, Etzioni hopes to have the movement accepted by leaders of existing organizations with effective lobbies in Washington.

The gradualist program rejects immediate and complete world disarmament as unfeasible and rejects the theory of arms control as simply a freezing of the present tensions.

"Thus," he said, "we come to the new and basic points of the 'gradualist' strategy, designed to halt the arms spiral and reverse it toward disarmament. This is the idea of 'arms reduction' which attacks nuclear arms in a roundabout way since it is unrealistic to expect rival nations to remove their nuclear bombs first."

By removing conventional weapons first, he declared, the threat of limited war becoming nuclear conflict is eliminated.

And, he said, "The West can be cured of its present fear to disarm because of the continual threat of Communist war-by-proxy tactics."

Then he would propose an area-by-area systematic disarmament of small nuclear weapons, each step permitting adequate inspection. And finally, elimination of all nuclear weapons.

He believes the program would work because until the final step each major power retains its major nuclear weapons and thereby retains the protection of the threat of massive retaliation.

FBI Arrests Nick Costello In Baltimore

Wanted On Bank Robbery Charges

BALTIMORE (AP)—The FBI announced Sunday the arrest of Dominick Costello, 25, of Brooklyn, N.Y., on federal bank robbery charges.

Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the FBI, said Costello was arrested at a Baltimore Hotel. Powers said over $2,900 was found in his possession.

Costello's charges are in connection with the armed holdup of the Five Points branch of the First National Bank of Columbus, Ga., Feb. 14.

Arnold M. Ingram, 23, was arrested Feb. 16 on a federal warrant issued in connection with this bank robbery. On the same date, Mildred Earl Cochran Kreds, 35, was arrested at Columbus and charged under the Federal Bank Robbery Statute for the same crime.

Costello, a private in the U.S. Army, has been assigned at Ft. Benning, Ga., since last July. He went absent without leave early this month.

Nation May Never Again Need Huge System In Plan To Recover Astronauts

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may never again require a huge system of ships, aircraft and multiple teams of physicians, divers, and other specialists to insure safe recovery of an astronaut from orbit.

This was among first impressions of key men in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration after last Tuesday's successful flight by Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

They are hopeful great simplification of the recovery arrangements will be possible for the next Project Mercury launch, now anticipated for the latter part of April. Definite plans will not be announced until further study of data on the Glenn flight and recovery.

However, NASA officials, who preferred not to be identified, said planning points to a great shortening of the recovery area in the next attempt, and even further reductions in later launchings as experience increases.

The reason: Confidence in the ability of the astronaut to fire braking rockets at the exact moment required to make possible a landing precisely in an assigned area.

Some NASA officials believe it highly likely that only one carrier will be required, instead of the three carriers used for Glenn's mission.

Possibly thereafter, carriers may be dispensed with altogether. Because it is highly desirable to have helicopters available, NASA is looking forward to using an LCD-landing craft dock—instead of a carrier.

Furthermore, since the landing area will be as close as possible to shore, the ships involved will not have to take up stations until shortly before the scheduled shot.

Officials say the recovery might even be close enough to shore to permit live television coverage. And some day accuracy may be great enough to permit landing a spacecraft on the deck of a ship.

Although the procession itself will have only one marching band, the occasion will not lack for music to compete with the screaming thousands. Seventeen service and school bands will be stationed along the route.

Pupils from schools throughout the metropolitan Washington area are being released from classes so they can see the historic event.

The best solution, he said would be "a much more rapid rate of economic growth than we have had in recent years. Our major job is to improve our general economic situation."

Murrow Sees No Harm In Peace Appeal

White House Tour To Be Rebroadcast

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward R. Murrow, director of the U.S. Information Agency, said Sunday "I can't see that any harm would result" if Mrs. John F. Kennedy broadcast a peace appeal to the Soviet Union.

Murrow gave this opinion on a taped ABC-TV interview — "Issues and Answers" — when asked whether he felt the President's wife should broadcast to the U.S.S.R. as Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev did to the United States recently.

Shortly after Mrs. Khrushchev was heard, a women's organization suggested that Mrs. Kennedy do something similar. The only White House comment was that there were no plans for her to do so.

Murrow said the USIA plans wide distribution of the TV program in which Mrs. Kennedy conducted an interview on a tour of the White House and explained changes being made in it.

The White House has reported enthusiastic mail response to the program — and also that daily White House visitors have doubled to about 2,600 since it was shown.

Murrow said: "I think Mrs. Kennedy obviously is a national asset in the field of communications. The tour of the White House we will be showing all around the world, where the commercial networks do not have normal outlets or exchange arrangements."

"And you might be interested to know that she agreed to do for us a short introduction in both French and Spanish before she did the tour in English, and this, of course, will be pleasing to a great many French and Spanish speaking people around the world."

Seven Arrested In Easton Sit-In Demonstrations

Boycott Of Baking Co. Is Ended

By The Associated Press

Seven demonstrators were arrested in Easton Saturday as members of the Civic Interest Group of Maryland (CIG) renewed their efforts to desegregate restaurants and lunch counters on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

The five whites and two Negroes arrested as they attempted to sit-in at two Easton Restaurants, were charged with trespassing and released on bond of from $100 to $300 each.

Demonstrators, many from northern colleges and universities, also appeared in Denton, Federalburg and Ridgely—all in Caroline County—and in Chestertown, seat of Kent County. There were no incidents or arrests.

In Baltimore, meanwhile, a group of social workers said they planned to boycott the Eastern Regional Conference of the Child Welfare League of America scheduled to start Thursday.

The group said it was protesting segregated eating facilities in Baltimore. Earlier, officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and CIG urged the league not to meet in Baltimore because of restaurant and lunch counter segregation.

A planned Negro boycott of the Schmidt Baking Co. in Baltimore was cancelled late Saturday when agreement was reached between company officials and the Minister's Alliance.

Earlier, some 200 clergymen of the alliance said they were going to call for such a boycott from their pulpits Sunday because Schmidt was not hiring enough Negroes in positions of responsibility.

The boycott was cancelled after Schmidt officials agreed to hire one capable young Negro woman to work in the office and assured the alliance that "attention will be given to additional supervisory employment."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am our car. He replied "You don't so burned up I can hardly see to write this letter. I need your opinion—fast."

We've had a lot of snow around here this winter and it's been rough on all of us. This morning, after my husband left for work, the doorbell rang. It was the man next door. He wanted to know if I would mind pushing his car out of their driveway. He said all he needed was "a little shove."

I told him my husband had already left for work and taken

DEAR HEN: Never mind about HIM. He's a clod. But agreeing to do it qualifies you to lead off the brainless class.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15 years old and had my first date last night. The fellow is a nice guy who is also 15. This is what happened and I'd like to know what to do if it happens again.

Benny picked me up at 7 p.m. and we took a bus to the movie house. When we got to the box office he very politely said, "You may buy your ticket first." I'm lucky I had money with me because I sure didn't expect to buy my own ticket. I tried not to look surprised.

After the movie he offered to treat me to a soda and I accepted. He paid for both my soda and his. I'm sure he will ask me out again. Shall I accept?—GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA: If you like the boy accept. But do him a favor and tell him that when a young man invites a lady to the movies he is supposed to buy her ticket unless it was agreed in advance that the date was to be Dutch treat.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband's sister insists on bringing their untrained dog whenever she comes to spend the weekend with us, which is at least once a month.

She knows exactly how I feel about this dog because I've told her repeatedly that she is welcome any time, but I don't want that dog in my house. Every time she comes over she says, "I tried to find someone who would take Ginger but it didn't work out. I hope you won't mind."

I have a new baby. That dirty dog goes into the nursery and messes on the floor. It makes me sick. My sister-in-law lets the dog sleep on her pillow and now that mattress has a dog smell. I'll never get rid of it.

Please, Ann, help me solve this problem. It has almost ruined my relationship with my husband's whole family, because they all like the dog. —DOG-GONED

DEAR D. G.: Stop asking and

Court Action Filed For Union's Failure To File Reports

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has instituted the first court action against a union for failure to file reports required under the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act.

The Public Building Service, Hospital and Institutional Employees' Union, Local 113 of Minneapolis, Minn., affiliated with the Building Service Employees International Union, is charged with failing and refusing to file copies of its constitution and by-laws and a Labor Organization Financial Reports.

Alexander Graham Bell, Scottish-born inventor of the telephone, filed for American citizenship in 1874 and later counted becoming a citizen the most glorious honor of his life. But in his excited effort to end the first telephone conversation in 1876 with a properly dramatic flourish, he thundered, "God Save the Queen!"

TELL her she can't bring the dog into your home again. If she appears at the door with Ginger hand her the telephone number of the nearest kennel or a vet who will house the dog. When your sister-in-law sees that you mean business your problem will be solved.

Confidential to UGLY AMERICAN: Tell him that anyone who brags about his ancestors admits his relatives are better dead than alive. This should settle his hash.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠A75 ♥109632 ♦K83 ♣76

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1♣ Double Pass 1♥

Pass 2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand constitutes a good holding opposite a take-out double inasmuch as you might have been forced to respond with little or nothing. Partner should, therefore, be offered a positive inducement to carry on, and a rebid of three hearts by you at this point will serve to convey the message.

Q. 2—Partner opens with two diamonds and you hold:

♠Q752 ♥KJ85 ♦K94 ♣AJ

What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. This hand obviously will be played in slam and, in order to lay the foundation for the bidding campaign, the trump suit should be accepted. On the next round you will show the club ace. A grand slam is a strong probability.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠QJ7 ♥K1062 ♦K943 ♣65

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1♥ 3♣ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. It is true that your hand does not measure up to the requirements for a double raise. But this is not a double raise in the true sense of the word. Partner must realize that your action may have been taken under pressure. We would not consider it good practice to be taken out of the picture.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠KQ96 ♥KQJ975 ♦K2 ♣5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass

2♥ Pass 2♠ Pass

3♠ Pass 4♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. This is preferable to returning to spades. Partner has already ascertained that you have four spades, and you should allow for the possibility that his two spade bid was of an exploratory nature. If partner's spade bid was on the level and he cannot stand hearts, he can return to the higher ranking suit.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠AK965 ♥AQJ5 ♦7 ♣642

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ Pass 3♦ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. Partner's jump shift has announced that he has at least 19 points in support of spades. You know, therefore, that you have the material for a slam. However, to allow for the highly improbable case in which partner has two losing clubs, you bid five spades and partner, with second round control of clubs, will proceed to slam.

Q. 6—Partner opens with one spade and you hold:

♠108753 ♥62 ♦75 ♣AQ106

What is your response?

A.—A plain old fashioned raise to two spades is clearly indicated. The possession of a fifth spade should not induce you to take any drastic action, like a leap to four spades, for which there is no real occasion. This is a mediocre hand and nature should be permitted to take its course.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠K975432 ♥10963 ♦A ♣9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1♥ Pass

2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—With the splendid fit already established, sight must not be lost of slam possibilities, despite the fact that you have only two high cards. The proper call is four diamonds, denoting possession of the ace. If partner merely returns to four spades, you may decide to quit but, if he makes so bold as to show the ace of clubs, failure on your part to bid a slam would betray a timid streak of huge proportions.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠Q64 ♥AJ95 ♦10975 ♣Q10

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1♠ 1NT ?

What do you bid?

A.—You should double for penalties. If partner's hand is unsuitable defensively, he need not stand for the double. Even if he has a mediocre hand counting only 13 points, your nine brings the total to at least 22, which is more points than the opponents can muster.

How well do you administer authority? Here are some important considerations for those who direct others.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Speech Strategy For The Lady Executive

Your voice and your manner are two most important tools in getting results from others. They control the effectiveness of every spoken order, criticism, or suggestion. And unless you control them your success and future as an executive are dubious.

The kind of authority that produces harmony and precludes repressed discord is always based on confidence — the confidence those you direct have in you. To foster and earn this mark of excellence of a good executive, keep these considerations in mind.

1. Take care to talk in terms that show you understand the other fellow's interest and problems. Take the trouble to speak softly. As an old Greek philosopher said, "Speak to me in a whisper and I shall listen all day; Shout and I shall run away at once."

2. Make it a point of pride to be clear, ultra specific, and concrete in all of your instructions and directions. Before you speak, figure out exactly what you mean, and then exactly how you are going to get your meaning across. This will save others from having to try to guess—and you from having to correct them later.

3. Never be condescending. Only treating others as equals inspires their confidence—and their respect!

In a country where democratic ways are the ideal, the voice of continuing authority is always the voice that is well-liked!

The present world-wide "population explosion" is due to a decline in death rates resulting from increased use of preventive and curative medicine, rather than a great surge in birth rates.

Md. Assembly

to petition a legislative act to referendum is scheduled in the Senate Monday night.

Even though the original version was watered down considerably, it barely squeaked out of committee by a 6-4 vote.

In addition, the major purpose of the session—enactment of a new budget—still is to be accomplished. However, the Democratic leaders are confident the appropriations of more than half a billion dollars will come out of committee by Saturday.

No New Tax Programs

There are no new or revised tax programs involved this election year to cause floor fights.

In fact, horse racing is likely to cause as much friction as anything.

There is a tug of war among the three segments, thoroughbred, harness and the county fairs for more operating days.

On top of it, the Legislature is being asked to increase the tax on betting one per cent.

The bulk of the racing proposals are in the House Ways & Means Committee and no hearing for any of them has been set for this week.

The eastern two-thirds of the island of Hispaniola is occupied by the Dominican Republic.

third floor of the Court House. Mr. Mason also noted that he has worked for federal aid to help in the building of county roads, established assessment records on addressograph, obtained new tax billing equipment which provides county taxpayers with a modern bill with the available discount figured. He also has started a maintenance program for county buildings which has resulted in improved appearance to the Court House and library annex building in particular.

The Democratic candidate for re-election also pointed out that he helped arrange the forthcoming meeting between the West Virginia State Road Commission and the Maryland State Roads Commission designed to work out an agreement for construction of a new interstate bridge across the Potomac River at Pinto.

Supported College
Mr. Mason observed that he supported the establishment of Allegany Community College here last June, supported increased pay for county teachers and favored the building of additions now under construction at Parkside and Gephart elementary schools. He noted that a new juvenile detention home for the county is now under contract.

The Democratic candidate also pointed out that he supported the preliminary survey on the availability of Savage River Dam water for use in Allegany County and is still trying to get approval for use of some of this water. He also voted for the establishment of the County Sanitary Commission which is attempting to solve the sewage disposal and water supply needs of the county. He also has completed a survey of the County Civil Service System.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Mason was a B-29 gunner mechanic with the 20th Air Force and saw combat duty over Japan. He is chairman of the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association, member and past president of the Potomac Valley Lions Club, member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Cumberland County Club.

He is married to the former Miss Harriett Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson, Roberts Place. They have five children, three of whom still live at home. Their oldest daughter, Mrs. Richard Roberts, teaches in a parochial school at Glen Burnie. Another daughter, Miss Patricia Mason, works for the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington.

California ranks second nationally in both area and population.

Old Claim Revived In British Guiana

Conflicts on colonialism, such as Indonesia's threat to take Dutch West New Guinea by force, are not solely Asian or African fevers. In this hemisphere British Guiana, while not exactly an echo of New Guinea, is also the center of a territorial dispute which has lately erupted violently.

Venezuela is quietly moving in the United Nations to stake a claim on most of Guiana's territory, just as the British are preparing for a London conference in May to set a date for complete Guianan independence.

More than 50 years ago, the two countries submitted the border dispute to an international board of arbitration, and both accepted the findings as a "full, final and perfect settlement." Now the old claim has been revived, but its ramifications are actually, even if not avowedly, different from the wrangle over land which rose in a simpler, pre-Soviet world.

Guianan Premier Chedda Jagan describes himself as a Marxist neutral in the cold war. Venezuelan President Betancourt, who is a staunch anti-Communist, obviously would like to cut down to size in advance of its independence, a nation which he fears is more likely to be neutral on Russia's side than on Venezuela's.

These Days

The Burden Of The Proof

The Russians always want to be first about everything, but now the burden of the proof is on them. We opened every window. We showed every instrument at work. It is not necessary to send a Klaus Fuchs to find out what we do and how we do it. Stand in front of a television screen and look! It's a free show for all.

The Russians now want to pool knowledge. We always pool knowledge. Tovarisch! Maybe the American people are not too smart, but we do not like secrets. Since the end of World War II, the United States has been ready to agree upon a formula to pool atomic knowledge and to put it under the control and inspection of the United Nations. That was the Baruch Plan.

They thought we were failing. We seemed to muddle all over the place, losing time in what seemed endless discussion as obscure people expressed their ideas and brought in blueprints.

We let everybody see our failures because we have a peculiar notion that there is no monopoly on brains, that sometimes the simplest man can solve the most complex problem. We recall that Thomas Edison never went to college; we know that Henry Ford was a mechanic.

And so, we let everybody take a try at things and bring in their plans and meet the cold face of a uniformed expert or sit in front of a banker who cannot understand why this fellow wants to borrow a million dollars when he ought to be holding a job at union pay. But in the end, we put the thing together and there is always a Lindbergh or a John Glenn who will risk his life for God and country.

All the world saw John Glenn's family — his father and mother, his wife and two children. There they were on the screen, modest, quiet folk who prayed to God that it all might go well but who knew what was happening. We had no secrets from them. The children knew every move that their father would make.

The burden is now on the Russians. Let us see them at work, out in the open. That is another thing the Russians can learn from us: we are not afraid of failure and do not hold it against a man. In fact, instead of calling ours the "private enterprise system," a better, simple explanation is that it is the "risk system." Every enterprise is undertaken at risk. We never used to guarantee anyone that just being born was a free pass to anything. We expected a man to use his initiative and to have an incentive to produce, to benefit by his labors but also to risk the possibility of it not turning out.

That is our story, Tovarisch! For more than 300 years our people have lived that way. Perhaps it is difficult to understand these small towns in Ohio which you watched on the screen. There are no rich people in those towns, no exploiters of anybody or anything. Just plain working people and small storekeepers who all earn about the same, who ask for no special benefits but just a fair chance. Nobody in one of those towns has to join a party to get along in this hard world.

You used to talk about the power of Wall Street. You stopped that when you discovered that Wall Street was just another of thousands of streets where Americans did commerce with their savings. Then you used the phrase, "powerful political circles." The truth is that we really don't have any very powerful people in this country.

We are a nation of very simple people, folks like that family of John Glenn's that you saw on the television screen, folks that do not ask too much of life, only to be let alone, to dream and speak and read and write and worship God as each one has it in his heart to do.

That is why a whole nation stood still while John Glenn rode the clouds. We were not boasting. We were not asking for first place. Behind every instrument stood a person like John Glenn — not great generals or political strategists — just simple men who did their duty.

Now it is up to the Russians to produce their score card.

A-OK, We're On The Way

A Hope That Russia Will Record A 'First'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — What do "firsts" really mean? Time was when Lindbergh was the first to fly alone non-stop across the Atlantic to Paris. Who remembers the year and that it took him 33 hours?

Today, it is routine to fly the Atlantic to Paris in seven hours. Maybe it soon will be routine for people to take a world cruise in the skies on Sunday afternoon and go around the earth in 90 minutes.

What, however, really compares with the sensational reaction of the American people to the feat of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn in circling the globe three times in one day? Probably the most thrilling moment the American people ever experienced previously was the announcement that a cable had been laid successfully in the Atlantic Ocean to Europe on August 10, 1858, after repeated attempts had failed in prior years.

While the flight around the world by Colonel Glenn doesn't immediately change the life of a single person here or abroad, the laying of the Atlantic cable affected at once peoples on both sides of the ocean. Prior to that time, it took many weeks to get a letter by boat to relatives in Europe and many more weeks to receive a reply.

The anxieties that were felt when members of the family were ill can hardly be described even in retrospect.

The most graphic statement of the emotions of the American people after the laying of the Atlantic cable comes from the pen of George Templeton Strong, a famous New York lawyer whose diary was published by the Macmillan Company in 1952 — a half century after his death. He wrote:

"August 10, 1858 — Everybody all agog about the Atlantic cable. Telegraph offices in Wall Street decorated with flags of all nations and sundry, fancy pennants suspended across the street.

Newspapers full of the theme and of the demonstrations the event has produced from New Orleans to Portland.

"Newspapers vie with each other in grandiloquence. Yesterday's 'Herald' said that the cable — or Cyrus W. Field — is undoubtedly the angel of the Book of Revelation with one foot on sea and one foot on land, proclaims that time shall be no longer. Moderate people merely say that this is the greatest human achievement.

"If no great revolution or cataclysm throws mankind off the track they've been traveling for the last half century, if the earth doesn't blow up or get foul of a comet, it will be a strange place in 1958, most unlike it is now. The diverse races of men certainly seem tending toward development into a living organic unit with railroads and steam-packets for a circulating system, telegraph wires for nerves, and the London 'Times' and New York 'Herald' for a brain."

The wildest enthusiasm reigned in the old world and the new on that day as copper cable was laid beneath the ocean from Ireland to Newfoundland. Three times the cable had broken, but when success was finally achieved Queen Victoria and President Buchanan "exchanged messages amid jubilant celebrations," and the book reports that "so many fireworks were let off in New York City that the City Hall caught fire."

What other "firsts" proved sensational? Certainly the introduction of the telephone was received with more enthusiasm than the telegraph. The great advances of mankind that have occasioned the biggest celebrations have been in the field of communication. While perhaps of more benefit to individuals, the discovery of a cure for each of many serious ailments of man have hardly occasioned the public celebrations or outbursts that have attended the spectacular feats of communication.

Effective propaganda will be derived now by the United States from the flight around the world by Colonel Glenn. It puts America on the front pages of newspapers all over the world. It even causes Soviet Premier Khrushchev to get in on the worldwide publicity act by his sanctimonious offer of co-operation hereafter with the United States in space ventures.

Again and again the United States government has sought to cooperate with the Soviet Union in scientific experiments. At the very session of the United Nations when Nikita Khrushchev took off his shoe and banged away, President Eisenhower proposed to the U.N. General Assembly that no nation should "put into orbit or station in outer space weapons of mass destruction" and that "international co-operation for constructive peaceful uses of outer space under the United Nations" should be agreed upon.

The Soviet government has repeatedly promised to furnish information about what it is doing in outer space, but has failed to follow through with its promises. Maybe some day there'll be another "first" to record — when the Soviet government promises something and then keeps its promise.

Hair Grafting Newest Aid For Bald Males

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A New York City dermatologist has new fringe benefits to offer to his bald patients. Dr. Norman Orentreich transplants skin from the busy fringe to the shiny top as though he were sodding a lawn with bent grass. The success of this venture at least shows that baldness is not circulatory in origin and has nothing to do with superior intelligence, virility, or wearing a tight hat.

The grafting can be done in the office or at the hospital, depending upon the extent of the baldness. The office technique is simple. Half inch circles of the scalp are anesthetized and small patches of hair are removed from the sides or back and inserted into the bald area. The small clods of "sod" take root and, when the hair grows long enough, the tresses can be combed over the surrounding bald spots.

Extensive bald regions are covered more satisfactorily with a series of larger grafts. Dr. Orentreich has covered the entire crown. He also has filled in a border around the edge of a toupee to obtain a more natural look. Fringe hair is used because it is more likely to resemble the original hair in color and texture.

There is one drawback to the method. The average baldy is confronted with hair loss that follows a definite pattern. The transplant may be taken from a part of the scalp that is destined to become bald in a year or two. It "takes" but does not realize it has been relocated and falls out when the time comes.

We do not know why some males begin to lose their hair as they grow older. Heredity must play an important role, considering the frequency with which it occurs in certain families.

In addition, the amount varies in each and a characteristic pattern often is handed down from generation to generation. Some end up with a high forehead; others with a small bare spot on top of the head. Still others are completely denuded except for the fringe that shows below the hat band.

TOMORROW: Air pollution and bronchitis.

SERIOUS OPERATIONS

G.M.C. writes: What are considered the three most serious operations, apart from the heart?

REPLY
Surgeons would never agree on the answer to a question such as this. All operations are serious because something can go wrong even when undergoing a minor procedure. The most difficult include removal of the esophagus, a lobe of the liver or of one lung, and extensive abdominal surgery such as complete removal of the stomach or large intestine. Most brain operations are serious.

LOW PRODUCTION

J. C. writes: My friend's mother-in-law says newborns' saliva and tear glands do not work until the baby is 6 weeks old. Is this true or just an old woman's talk?

REPLY
This is more or less true, as the tear glands do not go into full production until 3 to 4 months of age,

Forgotten Professor Contributed To Success Of Col. Glenn's Orbit

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It's a great day for Col. John Glenn and his family and the people of the United States as they celebrate in the nation's capital today.

But it's also a great day for an almost forgotten professor in St. Louis who left the government after he was hounded by then Congressman Richard Nixon and his Un-American Activities Committee. The professor, Dr. Edward V. Condon, now sitting in St. Louis without headlines, contributed one of the most important ingredients to Colonel Glenn's success—the heat-resistant nose cone.

In 1954 the Navy was trying desperately to find a heat-resistant substance for its missiles' space capsules which would withstand the tremendous heat generated when they re-enter the earth's atmosphere. Glenn's Mercury capsule generated 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit last week.

So the Navy in June '54 asked Dr. Condon of Corning Glass to go to work. Condon had been director of the Bureau of Standards, but got disgusted with government witch-hunting and resigned after Congressman Richard Nixon went after Mrs. Condon on the charge that she was gossipy and attended a Yugoslav cocktail party.

But in '54 Dr. Condon, having resigned from government, went back to work for the government, under the auspices of Corning

Glass, in developing a heat-resistant nose cone. He succeeded, and in October 1954 drove the nose cone down to the Navy to deliver it.

Nixon Says No

But the Navy refused to accept it. For, as a result of a phone call from the Vice President, Condon's security clearance had been removed. Nixon, campaigning in Montana, had read in the paper that Condon had been given a security clearance and telephoned to demand that it be revoked.

Three weeks later the Navy got smart and accepted Condon's new invention. And it was a refinement of this formula for heat-resistant material, first developed by Dr. Condon and Corning Glass that went into the Mercury Capsule which took Colonel Glenn on his history-making orbit.

Having had his security clearance removed, Dr. Condon had to resign from Corning Glass because it was working on government contracts. Corning loyally stuck by him, but thanks to Nixon's protest he left for Washington University, St. Louis, from where he'll be watching on TV the festivities which he helped make possible.

U.S-USSR Cooperation

American scientists say that the Khrushchev offer of Russian-American space cooperation could lead to great achievements.

Generally they have found Russian scientists quite frank on nonmilitary subjects. The Russians have already exchanged all sorts of important information with American doctors, and even during the U-2 crisis, when Moscow newspapers were blasting the United States, a delegation of American doctors in Moscow was getting excellent cooperation from Russian doctors on children's diseases.

Last summer when I was in Moscow, I accompanied a group of American and Canadian doctors to the Botkin Hospital, where Russian doctors spent the better part of the day giving the most meticulous and frank explanation of all their work. The American medics said the artificial kidney they had developed was quite new and revolutionary.

This was about ten days after Khrushchev had made a belligerent speech warning what would happen to the olive groves of Greece and the Acropolis if we got into atomic war.

Easing The Cold War

Commissioner of Narcotics Harry Anslinger has paid tribute to Russian support for his vigorous efforts to prevent illegal dope traffic, even when in opposition to their Red Chinese allies who have been the chief opium traders.

Adm. George Dufek, former U.S. Naval Commander in the Antarctic, told a group of Washington newsmen how Russian scientists had given him complete cooperation in the Antarctic. He even turned over one American observation post to the Russians to operate.

During my interview with Premier Khrushchev at the Black Sea last summer, I recalled some of this past scientific cooperation, and suggested that the United States and Russia ease the Cold War by cooperating on a small scale on projects which could be expanded into major understanding.

Khrushchev is a good listener. He listened carefully. He did not make too much comment, except to say as I departed: "Tell President Kennedy that if the United States and the Soviet stand together, no country in the world can ever start Atomic war."

Voice Of America

President Kennedy today helps celebrate the most kicked-around but one of the most important agencies of government — the Voice of America. The Voice has now been telling the world the story of America since Feb. 24, 1942, when it went on the air two months after Pearl Harbor.

Some distinguished personalities have headed or guided the Voice, ranging from Elmer Davis, the first information chief, to Palmer Hoyt of the Denver Post, and Milton Eisenhower, to Edward R. Murrow.

But almost every Congressman has figured he knows more about what the Voice of America should tell the world than its directors, with the result that it has been advised and preached to, harassed and harried, cut and kicked more than any other agency. Its darkest days were during the McCarthy era, when he looked under all its beds for alleged Reds.

Despite all this harassment, however, the Voice has done a surprisingly good job of selling the USA to the world.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Herr Rock of Shrewsbury, our German shepherd, has flipped his furry toupee. He is so confused that he is no longer certain whether he should bite Fearless Freddie, the leaping laundryman, or kiss him. He is 85 pounds of handsome misery. The dog, that is. He sits under the dining room table growling under his breath and wagging his tail.

Rocky will be five years old next week. He is, by any standard, a dignified gentleman dog. His restraint is magnificent. For a long time, he has wanted to bite Mr. Neville Russell, my next-door neighbor. Has he? He has not. When Mr. Russell says "Hello Rocky," the dog merely pulls back his retractable lips and displays his dental work.

We sent him to Dr. Emory Wingerter, who lifted him onto a big metal table and examined Rocky, fore and aft, and found nothing pathological which would make a shivering mountain of jelly out of what used to be a masterful mutt. I think I know the answer.

For a long time, Rocky was a bachelor, living with a bachelor. The two of us yawned our way through the sunny days and the starlit nights. On hot days, he found a breeze under the open bathroom window and stretched out on his side. In the evening, he ate part of his dinner, and saved part of it for midnight and another part for 5 a. m.

When he was in the mood, he curled up at the foot of my bed. On the floor, of course. We watched television together and shared the hard candy and the salted nuts. On good days, he was taken over the top of the sea wall to run up and down the beach, turning suddenly to breast the breakers and swim unmolested. He was as devoted to me as I was to him — which is to say, all the way.

Since May, his life has changed. There is a new mistress of the house. She sees him settle at the foot of the bed with the big sigh, and she says: "Rocky, get out of here." He gets in, in a high-legged, slow-motion trot. There are two little girls who play on swings in his backyard and sometimes, when he wags his tail and bounds for joy, they say: "Not row, Rocky. Can't you see we're playing a game?"

There is a lovely German housekeeper named Mrs. Katherine Rook. She comes from Lowenstein and she addresses Rocky in German. She pets him and tells him that he should eat all his dinner, not just part of it. She also tells him that he is a dog, that he should enjoy dog food and not walk around the house trying to act like people and eat like people.

He is in a world of women. They love him, but he does not comprehend love which can be turned on and off at will. Also, he would appreciate a little rough-house wrestling on the floor, but they are aloof. No one takes him to the beach for a wild tearing run after the flying disks.

Rocky sits and dozes. His sleep is troubled by dreams, which show up in muffled growls and high whines and twitches of the whiskers. He probably has nightmares in which he sees himself trapped on a bargain counter of a department store as a thousand women rush toward him.

Lately, he has taken to hiding in my office in the back of the house. He stares at me beseechingly, as though my name was Judas. When I get off the chair to find a book of research on the shelves, he gets up, yawns, stretches himself against his fore paws, and raises his black ears to full staff, as though something exciting was about to happen.

When I find the book, and get back to my chair, he stares at me, snorts through his nose, and sags to the floor. "Rocky," I say sternly. "I don't know what is on your alleged mind, but I have work." He half closes his eyes, and dozes.

Yesterday, for no reason whatever, he began to dig holes in the backyard. By the time I discovered this, there were about eight or nine of them. He was digging valiantly with his paws, the dirt and stones arching up behind him like a brown stream. Then he would sniff the hole, leave it, and dig another.

I gave him a smart rap on the tail, and told him he was too old for puppy games. He gave me his martyr's expression, and trotted back into the house (Rocky turns the knobs with his teeth) and sulked in the kitchen all afternoon.

"He's gone nuts," I said to Kelly. "Now he digs holes." She looked pensive. "Just digs?" "Frantically," I said. "Like a miner who has staked his last claim and has 10 minutes in which to make a strike."

Mrs. Rook came in. She heard part of the conversation and she laughed. "Das ist der schenken," she said. I didn't understand. Bit by bit, we unraveled the mystery. A week ago, she trimmed a ham bone and gave it to Rocky. He took it into the backyard and buried it. The dog covered it with a noticeable mound of fresh earth.

Every day, it seems, he went out, uncovered it to make sure his treasure was still in the vault, and then covered it again. Mrs. Rook, who has ultra clean habits, thought that a week of burying and reburying was enough. When Rocky wasn't looking, she threw the bone away.

So he dug holes all over the yard and he can't remember where he buried the bone and everybody says he's a nutty dog. He isn't. Rocky has merely tilted his toupee a little . . .

George Washington--Ex-President

Washington speaks to the overseers of his Mount Vernon estate. He spent much time during his retirement years improving his home and grounds.

Washington in his later years, painted by Gilbert Stuart.

When George Washington took coach in Philadelphia on March 4, 1797, for the long ride to Mount Vernon, he felt vast relief. After having served two terms as the first President of the United States, he had turned over the reins to his successor, John Adams, and became a private citizen.

The days that followed at Mount Vernon fulfilled all expectations. He was busy and happy. His wife Martha wrote a friend she was "as cheerful as a cricket." A farmer once more, the General devoted much time to improving his home and grounds. Gifts were showered upon him from every part of the world. Many visitors came. His two closest friends, Dr. James Craik and Bryan Fairfax, spent many hours in the mansion. He and Martha visited friends in the area and attended dances, which Washington sat out. He said "his dancing days were over." Withal, he never forgot his duties as a citizen. He rode to Alexandria to vote every time there was a local election.

Only one cloud darkened the scene. In 1798, war with France seemed imminent. The French government was interfering with American shipping on the seas. President Adams asked Washington to assume command of the army once more, and he agreed. But issues between the two countries were settled.

For 11 months, the year 1799 was filled with happy events. Washington's birthday was a grand occasion. He and Martha attended social affairs and weddings. He reviewed the local militia, rode horseback daily.

Then in December the end came suddenly. On the 13th, he had gone out in a sleet storm and returned with a cold. That night his throat was closed by a sharp attack of quinsy. Dr. Craik came as fast as his horse could carry him. The next morning, two other doctors arrived from Alexandria. But all their efforts were in vain. On the night of December 14, 1799, the master of Mount Vernon breathed his last, after less than three years out of office.

Washington sits out dance at Alexandria. He said "his dancing days were over."

Washington chats with his two close friends, Dr. James Craik and Bryan Fairfax, in drawing room. The two men came often to Mount Vernon.

Washington rode to Alexandria to vote. At polling place, he mounts rickety steps, while solicitous bystanders brace stairway with their hands and shoulders.

Driving rain and sleet storm drenches Washington during ride on Dec. 13, 1799. He caught cold, and that night he was put to bed with severe case of quinsy.

WASHINGTON in his last hours, attended by Drs. Craik and Brown.

This unfinished sketch by an unknown artist shows Dr. James Craik and Dr. Gustave Brown attending Washington in his last hours. He had said to Dr. Craik, "I die hard but I am not afraid to go." He died on night of December 14, 1799.

In the consolation game, the Catamounts from Keyser, lost to Shenandoah College, of Winchester, Va., 80-71, and concluded their campaign with a 10-17 record.

Prince Georges won the tournament by whipping Baltimore Junior College in the final Saturday night, 60-59.

Top Amateur Award Given To Wilma Ward

Track Ace Receives Sullivan Trophy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Wilma Rudolph Ward, winner of three gold medals at the Rome Olympics, Sunday was officially awarded the 1961 Sullivan Award as the outstanding amateur athlete in America.

The gracefully-tall, 21-year-old Tennessee State senior is only the third woman in 31 years to receive this coveted prize given annually by the Amateur Athletic Union to the "amateur athlete who by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance good sportsmanship throughout the year."

Mrs. Ward set a women's 100-meter world record in Stuttgart, Germany, July 15, 1961, with a clocking of 11.2. Four days earlier in Moscow she had anchored the U.S. team to a women's world mark of 44.3 in the 400-meter relay.

In accepting her trophy from AAU President Louis J. Fisher at a luncheon Sunday afternoon, the recently-married Wilma answered all questions about her retiring from track by saying: "Not yet."

AFL Kicks Off $10-Million Suit Against Rival Loop

Trial Opens Today In Baltimore Court

By GORDON BEARD BALTIMORE (AP)—The American Football League will kick off its $10-million antitrust suit against the National Football League Monday in U.S. District Court.

Lamar Hunt, owner of the Dallas Texans and one of the founders of the two-year-old AFL, will take the stand to open what may be a lengthy trial.

Rival lawyers expect the trial, to be heard by Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen without a jury, to last a minimum of four to six weeks and possibly as long as 2½ months.

The AFL contends the 32-year-old NFL engaged in monopolistic practices to prevent the founding and progress of the new league. In addition to seeking treble damages of $10,000,000, as permitted under antitrust laws, the AFL asks that the NFL be forced to withdraw its team from Dallas and be prevented from further expansion without court approval.

Hunt, son of a wealthy oilman, contends he formed the new league after the NFL turned down his bid for a franchise in 1959.

Pipers Top Steers

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Cleveland Pipers continued their drive for the second half Eastern Division title in the American Basketball League by edging the Kansas City Steers, 111-109, Sunday on a late basket by John Cox. Cox scored 41 points to lead the Pipers to their 11th victory in 22 games. It was Kansas City's sixth loss in 23 games.

AND AWAY THEY GO—The major league baseballers are off on that annual spring training routine again with two new N.L. clubs added to the list, the Houston Colts and the New York Mets. The Mets move into the Yankees' old site at St. Petersburg as the world's champs go to Fort Lauderdale. The San Francisco Giants start their training at Casa Grande, Ariz., and move to Phoenix on March 5. First exhibitions get underway March 10. (Central Press)

Wilt Gets 67 Points, Knicks Jolt Warriors

New York Defeats Philly, 149-135

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The New York Knickerbockers outscored Philadelphia, 43-26, in the third period Sunday and then coasted to a 149-135 triumph that eliminated the Warriors' last chance to catch the Boston Celtics for first place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race.

The loss left the Warriors 9½ games back of the Celtics, who beat the Syracuse Nationals Sunday, with only seven games left to play.

Philadelphia owned a 36-33 edge after one period and there were five ties in the second period before Richie Guerin gave the Knicks their slim halftime lead. Guerin sparked the winners with 50 points, while Wilt Chamberlain poured in 67 in a losing cause.

Willie Naulls added 33 points for the winners while rookie Tom Meschery was runnerup to Chamberlain for Philadelphia with 24.

Bo Winger Is Victor At New Orleans

Edges Bob Rosburg For $4,300 Prize

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Bo Winger fashioned a 4-under-par 68, withstood pressure from Bob Rosburg and won the $300 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament Sunday with a 72-hole total of 281.

It was the first tournament victory in nearly six years for Winger, who plays the PGA circuit only occasionally since taking a public relations job with an Odessa, Tex., oil well supply firm 2½ years ago.

The victory was worth $4,300 for Winger, 39.

Rosburg, the former PGA champion from Portland, Ore., who uses an unorthodox baseball grip, shot a 69 in finishing two strokes behind Winger.

Defending champion Doug Sanders finished third with a 285 after shooting a 71 Sunday.

Rosburg went behind a tree on his tee shot from the 18th and then blasted into a bunker on his second shot and lost all hope of overcoming Winger.

Lakers Win Over Pistons, 128-99

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Elgin Baylor led the Los Angeles Lakers to a whopping 128-99 victory Sunday over the Detroit Pistons.

Baylor scored 45 points, 17 of them in the last nine minutes of the game, and grabbed 20 rebounds.

Jerry West added 25 for the Lakers and Rudy LaRusso scored 21. Ray Scott and Gene Shue topped Detroit scoring with 16 each.

The win gave Los Angeles a 7-4 record with the Pistons this season. It moved the Lakers one notch nearer a Western Division record for victories in a season, which was set last season by the St. Louis Hawks with 31 wins. The Lakers' season record is now 49-23, and the team has eight games left to play.

Patterson Agrees Liston Is Logical Title Contender

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said Sunday his next title defense would be announced by March 13, the deadline set by the National Boxing Association.

Patterson, here to address a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, agreed with the NBA that Sonny Liston is the logical contender.

Patterson said he could expect the toughest fight of his career when and if he meets Liston.

It is believed plans have been made for the two to clash in June, but Patterson would not confirm this. "There will be an announcement within a week or 10 days," he said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — In view of Richard Burton's explosive denial of a statement attributed to him about "embarrassing rumors" regarding himself and Elizabeth Taylor, an interview with him forwarded from London is extremely interesting. Mr. Burton can hardly claim that his agent (whom he fired) gave out these quotes because according to interviewer Roderick Mann of the London Express, Richard was sitting across the table from him during their talk.

Referring to Elizabeth as "Cleopatra," Mr. B. said: "She looks at you with those eyes and your blood churns. I must say Liz completely fascinates me. I wonder what makes her so good? Off screen she's just a nice charming girl. But on screen she's absolutely compelling."

At this time Burton admitted he was impatiently waiting for Rex Harrison to die as Caesar so he could begin his screen courtship of Cleopatra in his role of Mark Antony.

The feeling that Gary Crosby had against his father is a thing of the past. Bing telephoned Gary in New York and asked him to be on his next TV spectacular in April. It's great news that Bing's eldest is in better health and a hit at the International Casino. Milton Berle also has picked Gary for one of his specs, and Warner Bros. is interested in Gary's playing President Kennedy's sidekick in "PT 109."

Apparently Barbara (Mrs. Gary) is her husband's inspiration. She is with him in New York, and very good for him. I'm happy to hear all this good news about Gary, whom I have known since he was born.

Fast talking Lee Tracy has had one more lucky comeback. He did a segment in "Follow the Sun" TV series, and producer Ellis Kadison has pencilled him in for another show "Chalk One Up For Johnny" in the same series to be filmed early in March. In this, Lee will portray a glib, big-time hotel operator in Hawaii.

It was no less than a personal request from the sponsor Henry Kaiser, that Lee be put in another segment, and Kadison complied.

Ethel Merman and Milton Pickman both at Miami Beach for Mitz Gaynor's opening at the Deauville Miami Beach Club, and everything's coming up roses for Ethel, according to Milton. The Troupers, a charitable organization in New York, has named her as "Actress of the Year." Last year Lucille Ball won the honor, and the year before, Milton Berle was named star of the year. Ethel will be here for the Bob Hope show first, then she returns to New York April 8 to receive her award.

"You must hear about the Troupers," Milton said. "Mrs. Cecil Beckman Jacobs is president, and it's composed of theatrical producers and directors' wives. They take care of needy theatrical children, and do fine work."

Poor Brenda Lee is in a hospital in Nashville, a casualty of astronaut John Glenn's takeoff into space. Brenda was looking away from the TV set when someone suddenly shouted, "There he goes now!" She turned her head around so fast, she got a crick in her neck and it developed into an excruciatingly painful muscular spasm, which required hospitalization.

But Brenda snapped out of her predicament when her manager Dub Albritton brought her news that he had signed her to co-star with Ginger Rogers for three weeks in "Bye, Bye Birdie" next August at the Starlight Theatre in Kansas City.

I was pleased to receive a call from Fran Warren from Tucson where she is singing at the Saddle and Sirolo Club. She said she will be seeing me soon in Hollywood.

Fran is coming here from Ben Hecht's movie "Underworld," which happy days—will be made right in our town. Later it will be shown as a musical on Broadway and Fran will be in that, too.

She tells me she also has a date to open the Round Tale Safe in New York. Nice to hear from Fran, and how that gal can sing.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: When Jim Arness planned out to Aspen, Colo., for some skiing, starlet Barbara Terry was at the airport to kiss him goodbye.

The Burt Lancaster family cat, Christine, although badly burned when their house burned down, still stays there and refused to live in the new place. The children and Mrs. Lancaster see to it that Christine gets fed.

Rhoda Borgnine, many pounds lighter, was a Sportsmen's Lodge with business man Charles Sonne, whom she has dated ever since Ernie walked out. Those close to Rhoda believe she and Sonne will marry.

Now that the cholera epidemic is over in Manila, Van Heflin has sent for Frances to join him there.

Jeff Hunter, who is also in Manila, writes that he's never had it so good. He's living in a mansion once occupied by Gen. MacArthur and has a car and chauffeur, and tutor for his two children.

A new twosome in town is Dorothy Mature, Vic's ex, and Tom McKay. They entertained guests from the East at the Villa Nova.

Good or bad, they're all getting into the singing act, and Yul Brynner is the latest. He's added three more cossack songs to the three he sings in "Taras Bulba" and will make an album to be released simultaneously with the movie.

The reason James Garner is not co-starring with Marilyn Monroe in "Something's Got To Give" is because the Mirisch Company has preempted him for "The Great Escape." Although "Escape" doesn't start until June 27, Garner will receive salary starting May 2. Nice work if you can get it.

On Tuesday Mrs. Josephine Sedgewick, mother of the late director, Eddie Sedgewick, celebrates her 90th birthday. She sends word to me that on her 75th birthday I said in my column she had more kisses than any movie star.

A proud father, who introduced himself as Mr. Lewis over the telephone, said that his daughter, Jill Robin Lewis, is the Ivory Soap girl on TV, and she is shooting her ninth commercial at Columbia Studio.

Long time owner of the Chicago White Sox, Bill Veeck, convalescing in Maryland, hasn't forgotten his old pals. He had a surprise birthday party for tennis star Frank Feltrop at the Palmer House in Chevy Chase, to which he invited all Frank's friends and pals. Walter Pidgeon and Mr. and Mrs. Hank Greenberg were among the guests.

TOKYO (AP)—Automobile accidents killed 14,500 persons in Japan in 1960, four times more than the toll 10 years ago.

Youth Killed, Three Hurt As Car Hits Tree

Women Injured In Rt. 40 Crash

A 20-year-old Petersburg area youth was killed and three persons were injured when the car in which they were riding hit a tree near Petersburg late yesterday afternoon.

The youth, identified as Glona Wilkie Reed, 20, of the Franklin Pike section near Petersburg, W. Va., was pronounced dead at 6:05 p. m. in Grant County Memorial Hospital.

Admitted to the hospital were William Jenkins, 20, Moorefield, identified by state police as the driver, who suffered head injuries; Peggy Miller, 20, Moorefield, for treatment of cuts and bruises, and John Mongold, 18, Petersburg, who suffered a broken collarbone and bruises in the crash. Trooper Bernard Breckenridge, who investigated for West Virginia State Police, said the accident occurred on U.S. Route 220, about 100 yards south of Petersburg, about 5:30 p. m.

He said the accident occurred after the car failed to make a left hand turn, left the road, struck a tree as it was traveling toward Petersburg.

Reed was taken to the hospital in a Schaeffer ambulance, suffering from a crushed chest and head injuries.

Trooper Breckenridge said the youth died in the hospital at 6:05 p. m. of injuries suffered in the crash.

Mr. Reed is a son of Mrs. Mabel Edith Reed and a native of Grant County.

He was employed by the Neff Lumber Mills, Inc., of Broadway, Va.

The body is at the Schaeffer Funeral Home in Petersburg.

Woman Is Hurt

An Indiana woman was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday morning after the car she was driving crashed on U.S. Route 40 in LaVale.

She is Mrs. Sarah Ann Arthur, 21, of 718 North Emerson Avenue, Indianapolis, and was admitted for observation and treatment of a laceration of the lower lip, contusions on both knees and possible internal injuries.

She was reported in good condition last night.

Maryland State Police said Mrs. Arthur, driving east on Route 40, failed to negotiate a right curve, crossed to the left side of the highway and hit two parked cars.

Tfc. G. C. Wachter investigated for state police.

J. Glenn Beall Jr. Leaves GOP Post To Seek Office

J. Glenn Beall Jr., Frostburg, yesterday resigned as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County.

The resignation was submitted at a meeting of the GOP steering unit here yesterday.

Mr. Beall said he resigned as chairman of the GOP committee because he plans to seek public office and it would be inconsistent to remain as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee while being a candidate for office.

He has headed the GOP steering unit for 3 1/2 years.

J. Wallace Close, who was appointed to the committee in February 1960, was elected chairman.

Stolen Car Is Sought In Area

City and state police last night were seeking the driver of a car stolen from a garage here.

The search began at 7:42 p. m. when John Spoerl notified city police that someone had broken into the office of Spoerl's Garage on North Mechanic Street.

Police were told the intruder took the keys, and a pair of dealer's tags, and then stole a car from outside the garage.

Maryland State Police were notified that it was believed the car, a two-door sedan with green top and black bottom, was headed west of Route 40.

IS CANDIDATE — James E. Kenny, 154 River Road, Westport, has filed as a candidate for the Democratic State Central Committee, subject to the Democratic primary election on May 15.

McKeldin Says He Didn't Say He Would Run

Goldwater, Miller Deny Pressure

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin denied Sunday that he told a group of Pennsylvania Republican leaders he was a candidate for U.S. Senator.

The Associated Press was told Saturday night that McKeldin was a candidate for the office being vacated by Republican John Marshall Butler.

Charles Downey, a reporter for a newspaper in Pottsville, Pa., said McKeldin made the statement in an interview following a Lincoln Day Republican rally, where the former Maryland governor spoke.

The former two-term governor, denying he made the statement, said today:

"At the present time, I am not a candidate for any office. . . The last day for filing (in the primary) is March 5, and if there is sufficient demand for me to run, I will run."

McKeldin, in a telephone conversation from Chicago, repeated he had been urged to run for senator by national GOP leaders, including Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me.

Denies Pressure

Goldwater, a leader of the party's conservative wing, said today he had not applied any pressure.

"There is no truth to it," Goldwater said in Washington. "I have never personally appealed to him to run for the Senate."

Sen. Smith was not immediately available for comment.

McKeldin also had claimed the Republican National Committee had asked him to seek the Senate nomination in the Maryland primary.

But Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., Republican national chairman, said he was "totally unaware of any pressure and I think I would be cognizant of it if there was any."

Goldwater recalled stating last fall he hoped McKeldin would run for governor. The Arizona senator said he made the statement when he appeared on the same program with McKeldin at a Republican rally in Howard County. He said he had not seen McKeldin since then.

Can't Take Sides

"Any good Republican would be welcome," Goldwater said, adding that he could not take sides in a primary election because he is chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

Miller, questioned about McKeldin's claim of support from the committee, said "this is the first I've heard about it."

"I haven't even talked to him," the New York congressman added, "and I doubt if he'd know me if he saw me."

McKeldin has been mentioned prominently in recent months as a possible GOP candidate for governor. But serious talk of him running for senator started only in the last two weeks.

Governor from 1951-59, McKeldin said he "couldn't understand" the reason Miller "took a blast like that." He said he had been making speeches in various states for the national committee. "What kind of gratitude is this," he asked.

Wrecking Crew Discovers 131-Year-Old Episcopal Sunday School Publication In Cumberland Dwelling

By ALBERT D. DARBY

News Staff Writer

In tearing down an old frame dwelling which had stood at 103 South Centre Street for at least one-and-one-third centuries, Harry F. Goss, a local contractor, made an unusual discovery.

In a second floor partition of the old house, Mr. Goss found a small booklet. A closer examination showed that it was a 100-page Children's Magazine, published by the General Protestant Episcopal Sunday School Union in April 1831.

Although the magazine was quite weathered by its 131 years, it was still in surprisingly good condition.

Coincidentally, Mr. Goss is a member of Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Because his find was an Episcopal publication, he decided to give it to Rev. William J. Cox, vicar of Holy Cross.

The old Children's Magazine apparently was the first or one of the first issues of this particular publication. Father Cox makes this observation because the April 1831 issue prints letters from Episcopal bishops endorsing the publication.

Heart Sunday Collection Up, May Set Record

Early Returns Show $9,492 Total

BULLETIN

Total Heart Sunday collections in Allegany and Garrett counties late last night amounted to $10,179.15 and more money was expected to come in.

Heart Sunday collections appeared headed for new records in Allegany and Garrett counties late last night as volunteer workers counted incomplete returns.

Allegany County had collected and counted $8,634 by 10 p.m., about $900 more than the $7,864.08 that had been counted at the same time in last year's Heart Sunday drive.

Garrett County reported an incomplete total of over $850, far better than the $523 reported at the same time last Heart Sunday. The incomplete total for both counties yesterday was $9,492.

Mrs. Henry McComas, co-chairman with her husband for southern Garrett County, reported $482 with eight areas, including Oakland, still to be heard from. She said she expected another $700 or so when all the reports are in.

Mrs. Irva Mickey, northern Garrett County chairman, said her district had collected $376.10 by 10 p.m., and several areas still had not reported.

In Allegany County, Mrs. William H. Macy, Heart Sunday chairman, said the response was excellent, considering the good weather which lured many people out for Sunday afternoon drives. She said she hoped they would mail in their contributions in envelopes the volunteers left for them.

Many areas were cited for outstanding improvements over last year's returns. Lonaconing more than doubled its contribution, from $243.18 to $503.57.

Westport was up from $482.95 to $634.58, and Eckhart increased from $184.85 to $256.77.

Mrs. Macy said the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association wants to thank all those who gave their support to the drive, whether as contributors or as volunteer workers. She especially singled out for praise the employees of the First National Bank and Trust Company, Heart Sunday headquarters. The bank employees worked two-hour shifts yesterday to help Heart Sunday workers count the returns.

Candidates To Be Quizzed

Mountain District, American Legion, will ask candidates in Allegany and Garrett Counties to inform the Legion of their stand on the Veterans Preference Act in view of a current move in the state to do away with the legislation.

The action was taken at yesterday's meeting of Mountain District at Fulton Myers Post 153 home here. Candidates will be asked to state their views before the May 15 primary.

In other action the district named Roy Miller of James P. Love Post 92, Lonaconing to replace Russell C. Paupe, of Ft. Cumberland Post 13, as a member of the Department of Americanism Commission.

Announcement was made that a district youth will be entered in the Department Oratorical Contest and a discussion was held on the junior baseball situation in the district.

It was also announced that Mountain District is third in the department in membership with 75.6 per cent of its quota.

Guests at yesterday's meeting were Department Commander F. Rollin McCordell, Senior Vice Commander Ollie Watkins, Past Department Commander John Sloan; Past Senior Vice Commander Wilbur van Sant and department historian John Devlin.
